SHOPPING STAN

A CHRISTMAS war of nerves has been going on between shoppers and traders.

Hundreds of people have been out in Weymouth town centre searching for seasonal gifts but there were no signs of a buying bonanza until this week as shoppers held out for last minute bargains or sales.

Weymouth and Portland Chamber of Commerce president Nigel Reed said: The main theme seems to be that people are shopping later, but signs are promising because there are a lot of people out there on the streets.

"What I would say is that it seems to be a question of who breaks first.

"Do people in search of bargains risk shopping

"If shoppers get what is still not as good as it has been in previous years.

"We have many orders going out this week and we hope to sell out on Christmas Eve because there is always a last minute rush."

Tovmaster manager Peter Healey said: "We have been very busy with people reserving toys earlier than ever before.

"Our only problem was that we didn't have any sledges to sell last week... because our supplier was snowed in! We hope to get some this week."

Graham Bentley, who owns and runs the La Luna gift shop in St Mary Street said: "People have been browsing rather than buying but the Christmas rush started this week and we are really expecting a lot of shoppers in over the last days before Christmas.

"People seem to want the more high quality expensive gifts and they are prepared to pay to get them."

Dennis Spurr of the nearby Fantastic Sausage Factory said he was having a record Christmas with more than 1,500 turkeys, ducks, beef and ham joints sold as well as more than 10,000 chipolata sausages. He said: "I have never to come in now although it seen anything like it. Our meat has just been flying off the shelves and the only thing we haven't sold is a partridge in a pear tree....and if that doesn't go I'll have it for my din-

BEAMINSTER town clerk Christine Bright has lived in Hawkchurch near Axminster all her

Before joining the staff at Beaminster Town Council, she worked as the finance officer for Lyme Regis Town Council for many years.

When not working in Beaminster, Christine likes to go walking and is close to completing a personal challenge to walk the entire South

Here she talks about her walking challenge, her plans for Christmas and what she has most enjoyed in Beaminster this year.

Christine lives in Hawkchurch with her husband David and sons Daniel and Martin, while her daughter Lisa lives just up the road.

■ WHAT have been your highlights in Beaminster this vear?

Sadly I am not a resident of Beaminster but in my position as town clerk I am committed to assisting members of the town council to achieve the best they possibly can for the town and this year the biggest achievement is the opening of the new pavilion in the Memorial Playing Field, made possible by the hard working and dedicated members of the Beaminster Community Centre Partnership.

The Square in the centre of Beaminster adds to the charm of this little market town and I am pleased that the long awaited enhancements to the Square are finally coming to fruition, albeit on a smaller scale than first anticipated but I hope they will provide base on which to build in the

■ WHAT would you like to see happen in Beaminster in 2011?

Continued success to businesses in the town, the museum, the festival and any other events planned during the year. We also have local council elections in May and I am looking forward to working with the new council.

■ WHAT three items are on your Christmas list?

I enjoy reading therefore there is always a book or two on my list.

For my birthday earlier in the year the children gave me a Ninendo DS and I have requested a couple of games and chocolate never fails to please

■ HOW will you be spending Christmas Day?

I will spend Christmas Day quietly at home with my husband and children. I also hope to spend some time with my two nieces Megan (aged eight) and Abbie (aged six) during the course of the day

■ WHAT is your New Year's resolution?

I don't normally make a New Year's resolution although I made an exception in 2008 and I am pleased to say that nearly three years on I have not broken it!

■ HOW do you spend your leisure time?

I enjoy reading, puzzles, trips to the theatre and walking. With a friend I am attempting to walk the South West Coast Path, we have completed Poole to Torquay and a section of the north Cornwall coast from Bude to St Ives. The next major planned walk is the section from Bude to Westward Ho!, a total of 36 miles in April, which I am told is the hardest section of the SWCP therefore I have decided to make this a "Sponsored Walk" to raise funds for Marvellous Amateur Dramatics' next production

■ WHAT is your favourite West End Show?

As a Queen fan obviously We Will Rock You is my all time favourite, closely followed by The Lion King – the costumes are just amazing.

ARE there any you'd still like to see?

I have recently seen The Jersey Boys in the West End which was great. I hear there is a new show planned for the summer which I would like to see based on the film Ghost. I also have a trip planned to see Dirty Dancing in Bristol next October.

■ HOW have you coped with the snow?

The snow has not been too much of a problem, the difficulty is getting out of Hawkchurch but once on the main road I have been travelling to Beaminster via Bridport which makes the journey longer but safer than the lanes.

■ WHO would be your three dream guests at a dinner party and why?

For obvious reasons Freddie Mercury, my preferred author Martina Cole and Kevin Costner!

New ferry service economy boost

UP to 90 new jobs could be created by a new high speed passenger-car ferry service from Portland to the French port of Cherbourg.

Initial groundwork is being tackled to set up the service which would operate from Portland Port through a new company which is exploring the ferry idea under the badge of HighSpeedFerries.

Director Jonathan Packer said the service would create a substantial number of new jobs for Portland and increased local spend from passengers and support serv-

"I personally would like it to start in 2012 ahead of the Olympics, but that will depend on getting everything together.

"I am a director of Portland Port and I have always seen the possibility of a new ferry service, so I decided to put one to-

"Portland offers the fastest crossing to France on the Western Channel and HighSpeedFerries could get people direct to France in two hours with a service running two or three times a day in season.

"These are early days, but this could be a very exciting development for the South West as a whole.

"It would considerably reduce journey times and road distances for our target markets compared to the Dover-Calais

He added that HighSpeedFerries had spoken to Weymouth and Portland council to inform them of the plans.

The company is also consulting with Dorset County Council and other statutory bodies as well as working with the Port of Cherbourg and the Normandy Ports Authority to agree operating Traffic flows would be well within those stipulated by Portland Port's original Harbour Revision Order while sailing times will crucially ensure that passenger car traffic is outside peak hours.

Mr Packer said: "The Western Channel has lost traffic to Dover, but people are starting to get fed up with all the travelling and our new fast crossing will offer people a different choice in the West Country market."

HighSpeedFerries also said that its proposed new service would not be in competition with Condor's Channel Islands services from Weymouth.

SHOCK OVER COASTGUARD CLOSURE

DORSET has been stunned by a Government decision to close Portland coastguard station.

South Dorset MP Richard Drax confirmed that "sadly the axe has fallen" and he immediately met privately with local coastguard representatives.

Up to 28 jobs will go in the administrative centre off Commercial Road in Weymouth which is facing closure between 2013-2015.

Portland is one of ten UK stations to be scrapped after it was not chosen as one of five sub-centres to back up several 24-hour main "super" centres including Southampton-Portsmouth.

Mr Drax told the View from Weymouth and Portland that he would be holding talks locally and nationally about the situation into the New Year and he said: "I am very disappointed.

"I don't like super centres. Local people don't get paid much but they do the job because they love it."

He felt the closure of Portland would threaten that "locality" but he added: "However, we do have large money problems and we are having to take some very tough decisions because of the situation we have inher-

Mr Drax said the jobs of front line personnel such as rescue teams and the RNLI were unaffected while the coastguard rescue helicopter was not included in closure proposals but was under review although there was no Government comment on its future.

He added: "We are now into a 14-week consultation

Weymouth and Portland councillor Mike Goodman, who as a Commander used to be second in command at HMS Osprey, Portland, was also saddened at the

He said: "It will be essential that whichever remaining stations take over control of this area that they have local knowledge so that if an emergency occurs, say at White Nothe, that they actually know where that is.

"I believe that this is a particularly busy section of coast used by a lot of amateurs which heightens risk in Weymouth and Portland harbour spokesman Councillor Peter Chapman said: "My immediate thoughts are with the staff and their families.

"To lose this many jobs will have an impact on the local economy and potentially on local sea safety. It will depend on how robust the new operating system is."

Snow chaos brings Dorset to a standstill

chaos to Dorset and caused nearly 100 road accidents.

Dozens of schools closed and Dorset County Council mobilized its fleet of salting vehicles to tackle its 680 miles of key roads.

Weymouth was virtually cut off as drivers faced nightmare journeys over Ridgeway and there was heavy snow from Lyme Regis to Dorchester yet Swanage was virtually untouched.

Dorset Police described conditions as "absolutely treacherous" and said one of the worst affected areas was Weymouth.

A spokesman said: "Sheet ice was a real problem for drivers and there were accidents everywhere.

"One in Weymouth closed Radipole Lane for a while when a number of cars collided with each other.

"We have had more than 80 accidents reported to us and more are coming in."

Some roads in Weymouth and Portland were impassable, particulary those with any form of steep slope, while drivers unable to cope with the icy hell were reported to have slid off roads in the Southill area on to verges or even into gar-

Motorists took up to two and a half hours to get from Dorchester Football Club to Ridgeway while one motorist said it had taken 80 minutes to get from Dorchester Road near the Old Ship Inn barely 300 yards up to the Ridgeway hair-land Coastguard had to send some staff home early while others faced extended duty because their relief was stuck in huge traffic jams caused by the conditions.

Bus services were disrupted with many people forced to walk home but rail services coped well and there were only slight delays.

Police crackdown leads to 44 arrests

DRINK drivers in Dorset could be facing Christmas behind bars that's the warning from police following the first fortnight of their festive crackdown.

The warning comes with the news that 44 people have already been arrested across the county due to the force's annual Christmas drink and drug driving campaign.

There have been increased traffic patrols, as well as roadside checks since the campaign started on December 1st - and these will continue until its conclusion on New Year's Day.

Chief Inspector Bob Nichols, Head of Dorset Police's Traffic Unit, said: "The next two weeks will see Christmas party season in full flow with lots of people out celebrating and enjoying themselves.

"We are carrying out additional patrols throughout the Christmas period and - as the 44 people we've already arrested would know if you do drive while under the influence of alcohol or drugs you will be caught by Dorset Police officers and will spend time behind bars.

The legal consequences of being caught drink driving are extensive. They include a minimum 12-month driving ban, a criminal record, up to six months in prison and a fine of up to £5,000.

Members of the public can report drink drivers by calling Dorset Police on 999 or 222 222, or by calling the free and anonymous Crimestoppers line, on 0800 555 111

Savings identified as council faces cut of nearly 17 per cent

WEYMOUTH and Portland council is facing a cut in direct Government funding of more than £1.45 million over the next two years.

The authority is going to have to cope with a fall in cash support from £5.145 million to £4.281 million.

This breaks down to a grant cut of nearly 17 per cent or £864,000 for 2011-2012 with a further reduction of nearly 14 per cent or £587,000 for

Councillors and officers have al-ready been identifying savings over the past year to put in place plans to meet the shortfall.

They plan to make savings through better procurement, the waste partnership and by joint working with West Dorset district council which is predicted to make a net saving of £8.5 million over the next five years.

Finance spokesman Councillor Peter Chapman said: "All local authorities are facing a tough financial challenge.

"Weymouth and Portland council has, however, risen to that challenge and we are leading the way in reshaping how local authorities deliver services.

'Through our merger of staff with West Dorset and our partnership and joint working across Dorset we are identifying the most cost effective and efficient ways of providing essential services.

"In doing so we will keep the impact on residents to a minimum and continue to provide the best possible value for money for local taxpayers."

A set of proposals will be considered by the council's management committee on January 4th, 2011 before a final budget is set by full council in February.

These proposals will include freezing the council tax at the current

Future of the museum assured with a new temporary home

LONG term arrangements for the future of Weymouth Museum have been agreed together with a new temporary home while Brewers Quay is being redeveloped.

The approach, which was thrashed out at a meeting of Weymouth and Portland management committee, will see the ferry terminal café temporarily leased to the museum which will also be allowed a small on-site café.

Councillor Kate Wheller said that running a café was "essential for the viability of the whole operation' while Councillor Roger Allen said the whole question of the museum's future was dependent on the Brewers Quay redevelopment scheme winning planning permission.

Members had to comb through two reports totalling nearly 60 pages including a business plan for relocating the museum within the Brewers Quay development.

It will see a new museum charitable trust set up with a "not for profit company" limited by guarantee or similar to tackle trust commercial transactions

It would have a board including two members to represent the council and deal with a new 13,550sq ft site with more than 4,000sq ft of ground and first floor retail space, all on a 25-year Brewers Quay peppercorn lease for the council which would sub-lease on the same basis to the Museum Trust.

The council would also enter into an agreement with the new Museum Trust to donate the borough's Wevmouth museum archive collection on condition that no items can be sold and that the full archive is returned to the council if the Trust becomes insolvent.

Weymouth Museum first relocated to Brewers Quay in 1989.

DORSET homeowners are being reminded to carefully dispose of left over turkey fat to avoid unexpected plumbing repairs over the festive period.

Wessex Water dealt with more than 2,000 blockages in sewers last year that were caused by fat, oil or grease.

This gave some residents a costly Christmas when they were faced with unexpected repair bills where blockages occurred in private sewers and drains.

Wessex wants its 2.6 million customers not to pour turkey fat down the sink which could ultimately lead to flooding.

Waste treatment head Nick Stone said: "Last year we dealt with more than 6,500 blockages across our region and a third of these were caused by fat, oil or grease. "Blockages seriously affect the performance of sewers designed to remove waste water from homes and businesses and can result in flooding inside properties causing extensive damage or external flooding that could lead to pollution of watercourses.

"Our advice is to never pour fat, oil or grease down the sink, but instead carefully dispose of it with your house-

Hot fats, which cool quickly and solidify in drains and sewers, along with other disposable items cause around 75 per cent of blockages in sewers throughout the coun-

Wessex said this was a particular problem at Christmas when it is estimated that 25 per cent more fat ends up in drains and sewers.

Restaurants, pubs, cafes and fast food outlets were also urged to deal with fat, oil and grease responsibly. Mr Stone said: "Commercial outlets should have grease traps installed and regularly maintained or where appropriate have biological dosing systems."

Wessex Water advised homeowners to let fat, oil and grease cool before pouring into an old container and disposing with household rubbish. People are also being urged to scrape or wipe plates, pans and utensils to remove food and grease before washing and put scrapings and waste food into food recycling bins and Dr Malcolm Beeson of St John's Church, Weymouth, who sprinkled in lots of entertaining facts about their background.

Performances began with Gaudete (Rejoice) circa 1450 sung in the original Latin.

Silent Night (Austria) was compiled in rather a hurry on Christmas Eve 1818 by two friends in a little village as an addition to their Midnight Mass.

Other carols included

Ring the Bells (USA). Scots Nativity, Calypso Noel, The First Christmas (New Zealand) and Ding Dong Merrily on High (France) originally a dance from the 16th century that involved "springy steps and much lifting of ladies into the air"!

Even traditional carols had a fresh gloss with While Shepherds Watched (Yorkshire flavour) and Away in a Manger (Gospel style) all contributing to the universal theme of the concerts.

Supported by the women, soloist Zarema Munro gave a moving and competent performance in Russian of Once Upon a December which featured in the animation film Anastasia.

The men of the choir donned hats - and corks to cheerily present a traditional Australian drovers' carol Across the Plains while Shirley Evans-Jones was the brave but effective soloist in the traditional African song Leo kuna furaha (Lots of joy) which she sang in Swahili with

Community centre given five-year lease

WYKE Regis Community Centre in Weymouth is facing an annual rental bill of £9,000 but it will only have Councillors awarded the centre a five-year lease but, with a council grant of £8,995 to subsidise their tenant for almost the full amount provided each year, the property was kept available for use by all sections of the community.

A meeting of Weymouth and Portland management committee also made the grant conditional on an annual report and annual equality monitoring detailing the uses of the centre.

Councillor Peter Chapman liked the idea and said it was "a good way forward" for other council assets while Councillor Kate Wheller said: "There is a very broad centre use at the moment, but I think it is excellent that we get some sort of report saying how it is used."

Members were told that the land on which the building stands was let in 1981 to the trustees of the centre for 28 years at a rent of £5 per annum with a covenant that the centre had to be built within five

The building project succeeded and was funded entirely through members' efforts and fundraising.

It now hosts toddler group sessions, a baby clinic and overall facilities which are used by up to 500 people per week. The centre has also raised more than £10,000 in donations for local charities over the last 14 years.

Family members

OME time ago, a baby boy called Geoff was born into the world. As he grew up, he made many and various friends by many and various friends; but one in particular called Judith became his wife. In due course, children were born and they, in turn, made their own spe-

Judith and Geoff, now nearing their sell-by date, but evidently well within their use-by date, are still enjoying very active lives. Nowadays, the main focus of their activities is very much Christian based.

Yes, the family has grown - in more ways than one. How amazing that what started with one person, doubled and eventually became eleven. In short, one plus one equals eleven! Someone then called them "The Treleaven eleven". But even that number has since increased as growth continues

At this time of year, we remember that another baby boy called Jesus was born many years ago. He was often lonely, but some befriended Him and now His huge family is scattered all over the world.

This is more personal than usual, but it is written with a strong desire for others to know the real Christmas joy of being part of His family.

My very good wishes to you all.

Weymouth Matters

A personal View by HARRY WALTON

NYONE being woken unceremoniously on a Sunday morning has a right to feel angry.

So I had some sympathy when more than 1,000 charity walkers disturbed a huge owl as they tramped their way down Ridge-

The bird didn't fancy staying put when so many people were about and promptly flew away up the line of a hedge.

This created a sort of natural ripple effect as terrified small birds shot off branches where they had been resting, flying off hurriedly across fields as the owl flapped further up hill away from the road.

By the time the owl had made it towards what it considered to be a respectful safe distance from all those rudely intrusive walkers there must have been 30-40 birds flying away from the owl which in turn was drawing some aggressive attention from crows. So much for peaceful lie-ins.

Rudely awoken! If it's not done now ... forget it!

F you are not panicking yet then you don't understand the problem. That's because there are less than 48 hours to go until Christmas Day when excited children wake up and berate their father for drinking all the sherry left out for Santa.

Most people will have broken the back of Christmas arrangements by now, but a terrible penalty awaits those who haven't.

In years gone by I've had to make a couple of brief Christmas Eve dashes to collect one or two final items forgotten in all the rush and I'm praying it doesn't happen this year because the vicious scrum in every supermarket has to be seen to be be-

Harsh words are common and I've seen blows exchanged before now, perhaps un-surprisingly between two women whose brittle façade of seasonal good will finally cracked under the pressure of who should have the last turkey roasting tin on the Town centre streets are a cauldron split evenly between those out enjoying a drink and those desperate to finish shopping so they can join them at the bar.

Any bar will do. It's bad out there, worst I've seen, double scotch please, couldn't park, no cranberry sauce anywhere, mine's a port and lemon, blasted cashpoint was broken, didn't win the raffle, vodka Red Bull please, just rammed her trolley straight in to me, pint of cider 'n a Guinness my darling, lost my list, these were the last sprouts they had,

G&T pleeesh, give us a kiss!....and so it goes on.

The dying hours of Christmas Eve have something of the last march of the lemmings about them and every shopkeeper in Weymouth is hoping it happens again.

Some businesses have done well but elsewhere there are a few forced smiles. Roadworks and the recession are hardly ideal bedmates for Christmas shopping.

So get out there and get it done in time to really enjoy Christmas. Oh God, I've forgotten the cloves for the bread sauce! Perhaps Tesco has some. Get my round in will you, here's £20. What d'you mean it's

There are advantages to being able to see your shopping

THERE are so many advantages to shopping on line that you might wonder how ordinary High Street shops survive.

My Christmas shopping was made immeasurably easier by being able to go on a well known internet shopping site, order up a range of books, DVDs, CDs and other items and just sit back and wait until they were delivered to my door.

Of course we've bought other things from a whole range of other places including local shops but, as my email shopping began to arrive, one item showed why there will always be local shops.

It was a book, ordered on line, which was duly arriving within the time scales specified and in immaculate order with not a mark or a tear on the wrapping and the book it contained in pristine condition.

So why do I feel that there will always be space for books to be sold locally?

Well the reason is that if I'd bought it locally I would have been able to check it first hand and I wouldn't have faced the problem of discovering that the book posted through my letterbox had been printed in German! I had to send it back.

A Merry Christmas to all my readers!

Batteries not included - they don't need to be

THESE days you can't seem to buy any thing without coming across: "Batteries not included."

Even if you do buy batteries they run out and one woman hit problems when she tried to buy replacements.

The torch involved seemed to be a good one, but she was having some trouble finding out what type of battery it took because the torch was sturdy and she couldn't open the compartment.

She tried forcing her way inside but she wasn't strong enough and asked her husband to help.

He then gently broke the news to her that it was a dynamo torch and didn't use bat-

View 2 Music Albums of the year

by James Coles

1 | BAND OF JOY *Robert Plant*Following on from the acclaimed Led Zep reunion and collaboration with Alison Krauss in 2007, Plant decided to go his own way again in 2010. He returned with an album that invoked the name of the psychedelic blues band he fronted before Zeppelin, full of bounding energy and bursting with unexpected eclecticism. The opening gambit is the terrific reworking of Los Lobos' 50s stomper, 'Angel Dance.' Other highlights include his take on 60s dance floor filler, 'You Can't Buy My Love, and the foreboding 30s gospel number, 'Satan, Your Kingdom Must Come Down.' His new band, complete with Patty Griffin's beautifully wistful vocals and Buddy Miller's country-tinged guitar, stamp their mark on the album's sound - my highlight of the year.

2 | LE NOISE Neil Young

It takes a brave man to put out an album these days that features little more than a voice and an electric guitar, albeit one cranked to the max. And although two of the album's tracks ('Love And War' and 'Peaceful Valley Boulevard') are plaintive, acoustic numbers - that do break up the sonic barrage - the majority of the record is a full-on, ear bashing assault. Never less than both gripping and honest, it's proof Young is still an artist to be reckoned with.

3 | LIGHTS Ellie Goulding

A generation or so ago someone like Ellie Goulding would have recorded a more traditional sounding debut album. She ticks all the right boxes as a singer-songwriter, but takes things to the next level by fusing these talents with a rather more modern sound - folktronica, if you will. Genuinely great songs that may be all glossy and pop on the outside but aren't at all superficial. They have heart and soul; strip them down, remove the blips and bleeps - they sound just as good with nothing but guitar and voice.

4 | INNERSPEAKER Tame Impala

On first listen, you'd be forgiven if you thought that this record is a long lost psychedelic classic, recorded on the West Coast in the late Sixties. You'd be right on one count - the bit about the West Coast - but this record doesn't come from the sunny shores of California, but Perth, Western Australia. Now Perth may be one of the most isolated cities on the planet, but surely it's heard some new sounds over the 40-odd years since Cream and Hendrix ruled the airwaves? Still, if it leads to records like this - who cares?

5 | SEASONS OF MY SOUL Rumer Singer-songwriter Sarah Joyce has been trying to get noticed for some years, in many different musical genres. But at last she's found her true voice - and what a voice - under the guise of Rumer. Reminiscent of the pure, soft tones of Karen Carpenter - surely a marker for any female vocalist of this ilk - Rumer's vocals take her already effective, delicate songs to another level.

6 | I SPEAK BECAUSE I CAN *Laura Marling*Laura Marling has been a darling of the so called "nu-folk" scene for what feel likes an eternity. Her music is often painted with the miserablism brush but this record does offer the odd moments of optimism. However, few would disagree that Marling is at her most compelling when writing from a dark place. Songs like 'Hope In The Air' can't fail to get under one's skin or make you wonder how someone so young (Marling isn't yet 21) can write songs so mature and elo-

7 | POSTCARDS FROM A YOUNG MAN *Manic Street Preachers*One last shot at mass communication. That's how the Manics summed up their manifesto for this, their tenth album. In the Britpop crazed mid to late Nineties, the Manics were more than mainstream, but their recent albums have seen a return to a more edgier sound. They never lost their intellectual fire or the need to treat their music as a cause; making the sort of album they wanted to and not what some record label exec wanted was always going to be policy number one. So, what have Manics circa 2010 some up with? How about an album with the integrity of anything they're ever recorded but also the lush strings, harmonies and melodies of their most accessible work. And as for "mass communication," I guess touting the album on Strictly Come Dancing means they've achieved

8 | WAKE UP THE NATION - Paul Weller

After 2008's undoubted attempt at creating his own 'White Album', it was anyone's guess in which direction the Modfather would head next. Turned out, next on the agenda was a dose of angst-driven 21st century punk that sounds as angry as anything he ranted with The Jam 30-odd years ago. And if it's hardly a surprise that Mr Weller isn't too content with modern life, the fact he's allowed the more avant-garde elements of this album's predecessor to slip through is. What on first listen may sound a more conventional Weller record has enough moments to prove he is still innovator and never one to rest on his laurels.

9 | HAPPINESS Hurts

Synth pop duos may sound a little too 1981, but Hurts don't care if their look and sound - scares off the too cool for school indie kid types. They have the tunes. And that's all that matters. They embrace the whole pop ethos to a massive degree. They have huge ambition and even persuaded Kylie to sing on this, their debut offering. Rise above the obvious insults - wet look hair and a song that gushes about Verona in much the same way Ultravox did about Vienna and soak up these widescreen, unashamedly pop, pop songs.

10 | OLYMPIA Bryan Ferry

It's been a while since Roxy Music made an album (1982 to be precise) and it seems Bryan Ferry still doesn't quite have the nerve to slap that name on the front of a new record. Olympia so easily could have been that LP. Roxy have been touring again for the last ten years and this new release does features two members of the line-up. But instead of a tight group effort it boasts a string of big name guest stars - including Pink Floyd's David Gilmour, Jonny Greenwood of Radiohead, Red Hot Chili Peppers' Flea, and even old Roxy bandmate, Brian Eno and makes this list for maybe nothing more than not imploding under the weight of expectation. Perhaps a little too much effort from Ferry to sound, well, effortless here. But there are some classic moments and, something tells me, this is the closest we'll ever get to that new Roxy album.

Morecombelake Art Group's Affordable Art

THIS year as a change, Morcombelake Art Group, instead of holding their annual art exhibition in August at the local hall, has been showing members' work at the Courtyard Gallery, Town Mill, Lyme Regis during the run up to Christmas, and the display will continue until Monday, January 3rd 2011. The exhibition will be open from 11am to 4pm Tuesday to Sunday and Bank Holidays, except for Christmas Day and Boxing

The theme, with Christmas gifts in mind, will be Affordable Art for Christmas, and at this exhibition there will also be a range of member's craft work including original hand knitted gloves, socks and toys, hand embroidered silk phone cases and book covers, printed fridge magnets and mouse mats, and rag dolls, as well as paintings, prints and cards.

The exhibition is run as part of the Town Mill Arts Guild programme, and will be the final event before TMAG moves out of the Courtyard Gallery and upstairs to the David West Gallery in the Town Mill complex. Information about TMAG can be seen on the internet at townmillartsquild.com.

Lyme Regis always offers plenty for visitors to enjoy, so if you miss the opportunity to go before Christmas, the exhibition will be a perfect opportunity to go to the coast over the Christmas holiday, mooch about and get some brisk sea air, knowing that there is also shelter from the weather to be found at the Courtyard Gallery. Art Group members will be present as stewards, and thus available to talk about the work if you wish to know more.

Panto Players to perform Goldilocks

CHRISTMAS festivities wouldn't be complete without a visit to the pantomime, and age old tradition, which is often the first time children go to the theatre.

Bridport has had its own local pantomime for nearly fifty years since Bernhard Gale founded the Bridport Pantomime Players in

The first one Dick Whittington was performed at Church House in South Street. This was a huge success, as was the second one Cinderella, at which stage the decision was taken to move to The Palace just opposite where all the pantomimes were staged until 1999 when the cinema unexpectedly closed. Bernard then adapted the small stage at

The Lyric in Barrack Street and transformed it into a small theatre where the next seven shows were performed, delighting the audiences with its informality. Sadly Bernard died in 1996 and The Lyric closed, but at the same time the Electric Palace opened its doors once again.

The players returned and will be performing their 46thpantomime, Goldilocks and the Three Bears, in the first week of February. They will be performing every evening from Wednesday (2nd) until Saturday (5th) with matinees on Thursday and Saturday after

The pantomime is full of song, dance and comedy and is a family show suitable for all ages from the youngest to the oldest. To get away from the gloom of the winter why not get the family together and go along to your very own 'home-grown, locally sourced' pantomime. Oh yes you can!

Tickets cost £7 with reductions for children and senior citizens, and go on sale on Tuesday January 4th at Pets' Pavilion. The box office is open daily (except Sundays) from

Poetry for Pleasure

No love that in a family dwells, No carolling in frosty air, Nor all the steeple-shaking bells Can with this single truth compare And lives today in Bread and Wine.

THOSE are the closing lines from John Betjeman's lovely poem, entitled 'Christmas'.
Our old friend, Diana Shervington of Lyme Regis, who is well-known for her lectures on Jane Austen, has sent us this seasonal song.

CHRISTMAS LULLABY

Slumber sweetly babe so dear With loving mother Mary near, The brilliant star shines out so clear For her precious baby Jesus there Sing Loolah-loo-lay, Loolah-loo-lah.

Wondering shepherds were led by that star As it auided those three kinas drawn from

With costly gifts they knelt at his byre While the shepherds gazed at the babe so fair Sing Loolah-loo-lay, Loolah-loo-lah.

Mary must have been bemused By all the attention her wee babe caused, The creator of all the earth and sea, Became a babe for you and me Sing Loolah-loo-lay, Loolah-loo-lah.

KAY Ennals MBE, a writer whose name will be familiar to many of our readers, particularly those of you who live in Dorchester, has written this Christmas poem for us.

CHRISTMAS IN DORSET

It's Christmas in the villages Through Dorset countryside, There'll be turkeys, trussed for cooking, And a baking of mince pies.

It's Christmas in the hillsides, Where Hardy's stories told Of Gloucester Lodge and Oxwell Hall And Melstock's singing soul.

It's Christmas in the County Town -Arcades and shops on show – Where East Street and High Street West Join the busy traffic flow.

> It's Christmas in the churches, Where carols will be sung By loving hearts and voices To greet the newborn Son.

ANOTHER children's writer and poet, Eleanor Farjeon, is most famous for her lovely hymn "Morning has Broken". She wrote this Christmas verse in the 1920s.

IN THE WEEK WHEN CHRISTMAS COMES

This is the week when Christmas comes, Let every pudding burst with plums,

And every tree bear dolls and drums, In the week when Christmas comes.

by Frank McGarry

Let every hall have boughs of green, With berries glowing in between, In the week when Christmas comes.

Let every doorstep have a song Sounding the dark street along, In the week when Christmas comes.

Let every steeple ring a bell With a joyful tale to tell, In the week when Christmas comes.

Let every night put forth a star To show us where the heavens are, In the week when Christmas comes.

Let every pen enfold a lamb Sleeping warm beside its dam, In the week when Christmas comes.

This is the week when Christmas comes.

be followed by question and answers with director

BRIDPORT'S Electric Palace will be offering a very special cinema experience in January with a showing of British horror flick, Spiderhole, and a question and answer session with the film's director. Daniel Simpson.

The phrase 'bloody students' has never been more appropriate than in Spiderhole, a stylish and ambitious horror written and directed by Daniel Simpson.

This British film follows four art students whose utopian ideal of living as squatters, free from rent, and free to party, turns into a nightmare when they discover their apparently abandoned mansion is concealing a hidden terror.

Spiderhole features a cast of up-and-coming British talent, including Emma Griffiths Malin (THE HOLE) and Reuben-Henry Biggs (STARTER FOR TEN) and will was released this Halloween.

The film will be screened at Bridport's Electric Palace on Friday, January 14th 2011 at 7pm, and will be followed with a question and answer session

Tckets cost £7.50 available from Bridport Tourist Information Centre on 01308 424901.

McIntyre and The Hoff confirmed for BGT

MICHAEL McIntyre and David Hasselhoff will join Amanda Holden as judges on the new series of Britain's Got Talent.

X Factor supremo Simon Cowell will also return to the ITV1 show, hosted by Ant and Dec, as a judge during the live stage of the competition.

Michael said: "I'm a massive fan of Britain's Got Talent and am extremely excited to be a judge on the new series. I was so thrilled when Simon Cowell asked me that I immediately wanted to run in to Ant and Dec's arms to celebrate."

Elaine Bedell, ITV director of entertainment and comedy, said: "Michael has established himself as one of the biggest names in comedy and entertainment in this country and, as someone who made his big breakthrough on the Royal Variety Performance, he knows exactly the pressures facing the acts on Britain's Got Talent."

The comic has been accused of being bland and has come under fire from the likes of Vic Reeves and Bob Mortimer, while others have praised his performances for their inoffensive "middle class" nature and lack of bad language.

Elaine also praised The Hoff, who she said had "been immersed in show business for many years".

The American singer and actor, who made his name as Michael Knight in Knight Rider before starring in Baywatch, has appeared as a judge on America's Got Talent.

Around 15 million viewers watched the final of this year's Britain's Got Talent which was won by gymnastic troupe Spelbound.

Michael has spent most of his career so far on the BBC, where his BBC1 Comedy Roadshow made him a Saturday night primetime star.

WILL Ferrell and John C. Reilly have added a comedic twist to David Bowie and Bing Crosby's classic Christmas duet.

A video was posted on website Funny Or Die in which the duo do an imitation of Crosby and Bowie's beloved 1977 Christmas special in which they sang Peace On Earth and The Little Drummer Boy.

In their version, Will plays Bowie and John performs as Crosby.

The mimicry is impressive, with almost every line exactly repeated. John fittingly dons a V-neck sweater, and Will sports Bowie's blue blazer and a British accent. The two stay faithfully in character until the end, when they curse at each other and Will knocks over a Christmas tree.

Not all happy families for Stiller and De Niro in Little Fockers

THE latest offering from the Meet The Parents series is released this week with Little Fockers<sup>12A</sup> hitting the big screen.

After the cash-strapped dad takes a job moonlighting for a drug company, however, Jack's suspicions about his favorite male nurse come roaring back. When Greg and Pam's entire clan-including Pam's lovelorn ex, Kevin (Owen Wilson)-descends for the twins' birthday party, Greg must prove to the skeptical Jack that he's fully capable as the man of the house. But with all the misunderstandings, spying and covert missions, will Greg pass Jack's final test and become the family's next patriarch...or will the circle of trust be broken for good?

SKIES of Blue, the debut single from local singer and pianist Billy Matthews, is out now on iTunes.

The song is a hauntingly beautiful, soaring ballad, telling of a lost love. Pleasantly situated in the centre of the unspoilt village of Upottery, lies this grade II listed stone built Victorian coach house, sympathetically converted in the 1990's. # What's on the box?

F YOUR idea of a great Christmas is being stuck in front of the telly eating mountains of turkey sandwiches and mince pies, here's a few unmissable programmes that will only make your festive view-

AN APPOINTMENT WITH THE DOCTOR

DOCTOR Who has been one of the Beeb's biggest success stories since it returned in 2005, and the annual Christmas special is now one of the first shows people look for when the festive edition of Radio Times hits the shelves.

This year's tale - 'A Christmas Carol' - sees Matt Smith's Doctor in a quest to save loyal companions Amy and Rory from a doomed space liner. Michael Gambon plays the miserly character the episode's title hints at, whilst Welsh songstress Katherine Jenkins makes her acting debut.

A Christmas TV preview by James Coles

CLASSIC CHRISTMAS

ONE of my highlights of the Christmas TV schedule has always been the BBC's annual ghost story offering. This tradition goes back to 1968 when the Beeb adapted M.R. James' tale, Whistle And I'll Come To You.

Now recognised as a TV classic, this spooky offering tells the story of introverted academic (Michael Hordern) who comes across a strange whistle whilst exploring a cemetery on the Norfolk coast.

This year the Beeb has gone full circle, remaking the story with John Hurt in the lead role. Interestingly, the new version doesn't actually feature a whistle, so I'll be watching not in the hope of the production equaling the original, but to discover how Hurt manages to summon the terrifying apparition in the first place! Find out Christmas Eve (BBC2, 9pm).

DRAMA

I'M TOO young to remember Upstairs, Downstairs the first time round, but I do have happy memories as a child, watching the re-runs on Channel 4 in the Eighties with my mum and dad (sharply followed by half of That's Life, on the "other side," and then bed).

With ITV still reveling in the success of Julian Fellowes' Downton Abbey, how ironic that the Beeb's offering in this Battle of the Period Dramas originated on, yes, ITV. The LWT production first ran from 1971 through to 1975, and was massively successful, particularly in the States.

Rose Buck (played by the show's co-creator, Jean Marsh) is the only original character to return to Eaton Place in this new three-parter, having worked her way up to the role of housekeeper. The show also stars Eileen Atkins, the show's other co-creator, as Lady Maud Holland.

Official CO: emission 119-154a/km. Nodel shown is C-MAX Titanium with optional Titanium X Pack, tri-colour metallic paint and 18" alloy wheels.

The last episode of the show, broadcast 35 years ago, was set in 1930; this new series is set only six years later. Luckily actress Jean Marsh doesn't look anywhere near her 76 years of age!

Other famous faces to look out for include Keeley Hawes (Ashes To Ashes) and Ed Stoppard. Catch up with goings on at Number 165 each night from Boxing Day through to December 28th (BBC1, 9pm).

IT SEEMS strange it's taken this long for David Suchet to star in an adaptation of 'Murder On The Orient Express,' one of the more famous titles in Agatha Christie's series of Hercule Poirot stories.

If you're one of the few people who don't know whodunnit - or even if you aren't - tune in Christmas Day (ITV1, 9pm).

Suchet has made the role of the famous Belgian detective his own, and with this story and the forthcoming 'The Clocks' under his belt, he - amazingly only has four novels left to film.

Not to be outdone, Julia McKenzie's take on Christie's other legendary sleuth - Miss Marple - also has a Christmas outing. 'The Secret of Chimneys' is on Christmas Bank Holiday Monday and 'The Blue Geranium' follows on December 29th (both ITV1, 9pm).

JUST FOR LAUGHS

EVERYONE enjoys a good giggle at Christmas and there's plenty of Christmas comedy to enjoy.

Rock 'n' roll legend Ronnie Wood and Hollywood star Thandie Newton are amongst the guests on Vic and Bob's festive edition of Shooting Stars (December 30th, BBC2, 9pm).

Originally intended as a one-off, John Sullivan serves up another serving of his Only Fools prequel, Rock & Chips, on December 29th (BBC1, 9pm).

Rodney's still a baby but Del's managed to get engaged to two girls at the same time. What it lacks in belly laughs it more than makes up for in some cracking performances - and Christmas just wouldn't be Christmas without the Trotters.

The seventh season of Peep Show comes to a close over the Christmas period with a special festive edition on Christmas Eve (Channel 4, 10:05pm) which forms part of a special evening devoted to the show. The night also features a new documentary and two classic episodes. The series concludes on December 29th (Channel 4, 10pm) where the hopeless duo see in the New Year.

The Royle Family make their annual return with a new special - 'Joe's Crackers' - on Christmas Day (BBC1, 9pm), which is followed by the first episode of Come Fly With Me, a new spoof documentary series from Little Britain stars David Walliams and Matt

Other Christmas crackers to look out for include 2010 Unwrapped with Miranda Hart (Christmas Bank Holiday Tuesday, BBC2, 11pm) and The Rob Byrdon Show (December 30th, BBC2, 9pm).

And don't miss Ronnie Corbett and friends in The One Ronnie (Christmas Day, BBC1, 5:10pm). It can't and won't be the same without the late, great Ronnie Barker, but plenty of laughs are still guaranteed

FUN FOR ALL THE FAMILY

THERE'S plenty of family fun on the box over Christmas. But if you choose just the one show, I'm not sure you can go wrong with the new adaptation of Richmal Crompton's Just William, starring Daniel Roche of Outnumbered fame in the lead role.

This new four-parter begins on Christmas Bank Holiday Tuesday in a lunchtime slot (12:30pm) on BBC1. Clearly aimed at the kids, there will still be plenty of laughs for mum and dad.

AT THE MOVIES

SINCE the advent of DVD and multi-channel TV, the stature of the big Christmas premiere has somewhat lost its stature - chances are, you've already seen it.

But, nevertheless, there's a whole bunch of movies making their first appearance on terrestrial over the festive season. With The Voyage of the Dawn Treader now at the cinema, it's a good time to catch up on the Chronicles of Narnia with its predecessor, Prince Caspian (Christmas Eve, BBC1, 5:15pm).

The fourth and, so we're told, final Shrek film has just been released on DVD, but Shrek The Third debuts on BBC1 on Christmas Day (BBC1, 3:10pm).

Amy Adams stars in another film for all the family romantic fantasy Enchanted - on Boxing Day (BBC1, 3:25pm) and Jim Carrey takes the lead role in Lemony Snicket's A Series Of Unfortunate Events on December 30th (BBC1, 4:45pm).

Older audiences may enjoy the premieres of sci-fi horror I Am Legend (Christmas Bank Holiday Tuesday, ITV1, 9pm) with Will Smith, and Cate Blanchett in Elizabeth: The Golden Age (New Year's Eve, ITV1, 9:10pm).

BEST OF THE REST

BBC2 offers two Boxing Day treats which will both be on my 'must see' list.

This year's Top Gear special sees the Three (Un)Wise Men in the Middle East, re-enacting a journey first made a couple of thousand years ago.

Jeremy, James and Richard drive through modern day Turkey, Syria and, err, Iraq in a trio of open top sports cars – hardly ideal for the desert terrain but it all adds to the fun.

Following this, there's a brand new TV movie, When Harvey Met Bob, which tells the story of the whole Band Aid / Live Aid phenomena of the mid-Eighties. lan Hart stars as promoter Harvey Goldsmith, with Domhall Glesson as the main man, Bob Geldof.

But for the ultimate Christmas treat, don't miss Swingin' Christmas (Christmas Day, BBC2, 9:20pm). This celebration of festive musical treats from the "golden age of swing" is presented by Michael Parkinson, and features The John Wilson Orchestra with guest soloists including Seth MacFarlane of Family Guy fame! The Christmas classics include 'Winter Wonderland,"Baby It's Cold Outside,"Let It Snow" and 'White Christmas.'

AND if you get bored of the leftover turkey and mince pies, try cold brussel sprouts with mayonnaise - the true taste of Christmas! (or see page 6).

Wishing all our residents and their families a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

What shall we do with the left overs?

OUR menu for the big day on December 25th has probably long been decided upon but what of that famous Boxing Day staple - Christmas dinner remnants. When I t'was a lad, the clean up operation would begin on tea time of the 25th and would involve cold sprouts and mayonnaise. I shudder at the thought now. So if by the time you sit down in front of Her Majesty you are wondering just how much turkey the cat will put up with, then here are some ideas for you.

Let's start with the beast that takes centre stage of most Christmas day tables. Turkey is a wonderful meat, and seriously underused most of the year. Its size means you can find yourself with a lot of good, lean breast, while the contrast between the light and dark can provide interest and texture when used in other dishes. An outstanding use for the relics is to use it in a pie, preferably with ham - which many people also have around.

A pie is an excellent thing to sit in the fridge in the Christmas/New Year week to feed guests. Once made, it is quick, easy, impressive even. Simply make plenty of shortcrust pastry (or even buy), and use in to line a deep dish and then bake blind. Meanwhile, make a thick Béchamel sauce and season with plenty of tasty herbs and spices. Add to it your cold turkey and ham, ensuring that it's not too wet so the mixture holds when you cut the pie. Now simply top with more pastry and bake. Perfect.

Secondly, I'm sure you'll have plates of veg here and there. You could go down the sprout and mayo route, but experience forbids me to recommend. Alternatively, there is soup, but I would plump for Christmas bubble and squeak. Basically, you need potatoes and greens, lightly crushed. You also, I'm afraid, need both a heavy bottom pan (preferably cast iron) and lard. As Clarissa Dickson-Wright says: "If you don't want to use lard then go and cook something else".

Olive oil et al will just leave you with mush, but a good hard fat will give you a true treat of a lunch before you begin to count calories again on January 1st.

Finally, find a simple ice cream recipe (essentially cream and sugar, although I also use egg yolks), but at the final stage crumble left over Christmas pudding in it. Personally, I'm not a fan of it in its normal state, but in suspension of frozen cream and sugar is fantastic!

So this year look at your left overs with war-time zest. Each plate of sad, unwanted grub can be a feast in itself during the week so the foodie celebration can continue. Whatever you eat this Yuletide, richest blessings for a very Merry Christmas.

Toyota scores double top with new Yaris T Spirit and SR There's a single en-

Moving into a new year, Yaris welcomes two new top-of-the range models to its UK line-up, giving customers the option of a version that's a touch more luxurious, or one that has a bigger dose of sports styling. Both newcomers are based on the top-selling TR trim and go on sale in January with special launch prices.

T Spirit

An integrated, detachable TomTom satellite navigation system with touch-screen operation tops the check list of equipment features on the new Yaris T Spirit, which brings with it Bluetooth connectivity and a USB port for linking in iPods and other digital music players. In addition to the regular TR specification, the trim includes eightspoke alloys, climate control, rear parking sensors and chrome surrounds for the front foglights.

Thanks to special 2011 launch prices from £11,695, all these extras are complimentary, resulting in a no cost upgrade from TR to the T Spirit grade.

Yaris T Spirit is available in three and fivedoor bodystyles with the full engine range: 1.0 and 1.33-litre VVT-i petrol and 1.4 D-4D diesel engines. The latter two units are offered with a choice of six-speed manual or Multimode transmission.

Toyota Motorsport 16-inch alloys, rear privacy glass, a rear roof spoiler and chrome exhaust finisher mark the new Yaris SR down as a sportier proposition. That's not the complete story, though, as the spec' also includes the satellite navigation package, Bluetooth, USB port and climate control featured on its T Spirit sister model plus a chrome and leather sports gearshift and chrome front foglight surrounds. Compared like-for-like with Yaris TR, the price premium is a modest

Panda crosses off another top award from the list

THE rugged Fiat Panda zine's testers, as the Cross has continued to demonstrate its popularity after scooping another off-roading honour – this time the Junior Crossover class in Total Off Road magazine's 4x4 of the Year awards

Launched in 2008, the highly capable Panda Cross has continued to be a favourite not just among customers, but with media experts too, and it's no stranger to awards.

judges praised the Panda's styling, handling, ease of controls and its punchy 1.3 16v MultiJet turbodiesel engine. The car's crisp steering, ride and brakes were also highlighted by the magaPanda Cross beat 11 other vehicles in this class to the title.

"The Panda Cross has loads of style but plenty of substance too," say the awards' judges. "It's great fun in town, a rough diamond on B-roads and pretty acceptable on the motorway. And it can do remarkable things off road."

The Panda Cross is one of a long line of Pandas that have sur-Total Off Road's prised and delighted customers for years," says Elena Bernardelli, marketing director, Fiat Group Automobiles UK and Ireland. "I am pleased that it is still collecting top honours - it certainly deserves

As with any Panda, the Cross's fuel consumption and emissions are exceptionally low. It returns 42.1 mpg in the urban cycle, 67.3 mpg extraurban, and 54.3 mpg combined. The CO2 figure is 136 g/km.

Standard equipment includes ESP with Hill Holder, air conditionalloy wheels,

Peugeot accident assistance comes to the rescue

AS the slippery roads and darker mornings and evenings signal a potential greater risk of having a road accident, Peugeot is offering a complementary accident assistance service to all owners, taking away all the negotiations with recovery agents, repairers and insurers that can compound an already stressful experience.

in the event of an accident, Peugeot owners just need to make a single phone call on 0800 92 32 999 to Peugeot Accident Assistance who will arrange for them to be recovered to their destination or home if need be. Peugeot Accident Assistance will also arrange for the car to be booked in at a Peugeot approved repairer, liaise with the insurance company and make sure all repairs are made to the manufacturer's standards.

Unlike many accident management companies who only provide free recovery and replacement cars to those drivers who can prove the accident was not their fault, Peugeot Accident Assistance will provide recovery and a replacement vehicle no matter where the fault lies.

Repairs arranged by Peugeot Accident Assistance will also protect owners from a hidden problem whereby repairs done with non-original equipment parts are not covered by the manufacturer's warranty in the event of later failure. This is increasingly common with insurer managed repairs because they are faced with huge price competition and the focus is on the cheapest repair.

Finally, once the car is repaired through Peugeot Accident Assistance, the repairer provides a full report to the dealer so they can recommend the best ongoing maintenance and servicing schedule.

Peugeot customers need do nothing more than make a note of the telephone number - 0800 92 32 999 or they can pop into their dealer for a window sticker or key fob as a handy reminder.

Commenting on the service, David Higgins, Director - Parts & Service, Peugeot Motor Company, said: "When you drive a Peugeot, we want you to enjoy every aspect of the journey, but of course accidents do happen and the Winter is a particularly difficult time to drive, with icy roads and fading light. That's why we want to make sure all our customers know they can have a free helping hand at a distressing time."

month as a result of severe winter weather, the AA has called upon I.M. Group to provide a small fleet of Subaru and Isuzu vehicles to ensure key members of its staff can keep mobile.

I.M. Group has arranged for four vehicles to be delivered, including a Subaru Forester 2.0 XS Auto and a Subaru Outback 2.5i SE NavPlus, chosen for their sure-footed permanent Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive systems and high levels of active and passive safety equipment.

In addition, I.M. Group will supply two Isuzu Rodeo pick-ups: a 2.5-litre Denver Max and a 3.0-litre Denver Max LE Manual. With credentials that include a class-leading 3,000kg towing capacity, anti-stall technology and an electronically-switchable 4WD system (both high and low ratio) the AA can transport staff in comfort and, at the same time, take on the toughest towing challenges, whatever the weather throws at them.

The AA's Director of Road Operations, Steve Dewey, is very grateful for I.M. Group's support: "It's imperative we transport vital members of our team safely to and from our operational sites in Cheadle, Oldbury and Newcastle, Cardiff and our Basingstoke head office. Marketing Director of Subaru and Isuzu UK, Kenyon Neads, said: "We were only too happy to assist the AA, and we have every confidence they will be very impressed by the go-anywhere capabilities of the Subaru and Isuzu ranges, particularly during the big freeze. Subaru's All-Wheel Drive system and Isuzu's electronically-switchable 4WD technology will prove of enormous benefit as the snow and ice continues to plague many areas of the UK."

Complete schedule wiped out

PREMIER DIVISION

(Reigning Champions: Lyme Regis) LYME Regis will not be giving up their grip on the Premier Division title without a fight.

But as it stands South Petherton, still with a 100 per cent record, are in the driving seat. The return of striker Rich Hedditch from Westland Sports will only add to their chances of landing the championship for the fourth time in six

But Lyme (who have yet to play a home league game), Beaminster, Merriott Rovers and Ilminster Town Reserves are all currently in a position to mount a title challenge.

Strangely to 'big five' have only met on three occasions so far. Beaminster beat Lyme Regis 1-0 at the Memorial Ground but went down 2-1 at South Petherton's Lightgate Lane whilst Merriott Rovers hammered Ilminster Reserves 6-0

So with so many crucial matches still to be played it could still be the most open title races for many years despite Pethy's apparent domination.

At the other end of the table both Combe Reserves and West & Middle Chinnock have vet to register a win this season and are favourites for the drop. The Chinnock's first appearance in the top flight has been hit by the loss of strikers Mark Cawley and Ian Masters who have both moved on to Castle Cary and Ilminster Town respectively.

With four teams Combe have a large squad and this alone could still see new player-manager Ashley Fussell and his side mount a bid for safety.

DIVISION ONE

(Reigning Champions & promoted: Farway United, West & Middle Chinnock) DIVISION One looks like being a three-way race between Winsham United, Crewkerne Town and Millwey Rise - al-though a consistent run could see Netherbury still re-emerge from the chasing pack.

Winsham have still to drop a point and have already beaten Netherbury and, perhaps crucially Crewkerne Town. The Tigers, the division's top scorers, also dropped two points at their Henhayes home in a 4-4 thriller with Millwey Rise who showed their battling qualities to come back from 3-0 down

At the foot of the table the appointment of new manager Tommy O'Hare has coincided with Thorncombe edging out of the bottom two.

Charmouth looked doomed, and a further drop to division two will do their rebuilding plans no harm at all. The Robins look set to be accompanied one from Lyme Regis Reserves, Ilminster Colts. Norton Athletic or even Thorncombe if their recovery stalls.

(Reigning Champions & promoted: Mill-wey Rise, Norton Athletic) BEAMINSTER, bidding for an unheralded treble along with the Tommy Tabberer and Jack Venn Cups, appear to be nailed-on division two Champions. The free-scoring Rainbows, have already banged-in five or more on five oc-casions in their quest for a third Division Two champonship (others in 77-78 and 87-88). Unbeaten Shepton Beauchamp

Meanwhile three defeats in four games looks to have scuppered Uplyme hopes of a return to Division One after an absence of four seasons.

best placed amongst the chasing pack

but don't write off Hinton or Crewkerne

The relegation issue seems to be settled already with Chard Rangers and Forton Rangers Reserves both playing division three football come next Sep-

DIVISION THREE

(Reigning Champions & promoted: Hawkchurch United, Crewkerne Rangers) MISTERTON are one of only two teams still boasting a 100 per cent record and as such are clear title favourites to land the division three title for a second time.

Missy will be joined by either Luso-Chard, resurgent Chard United or Crewkerne Reserves.

At the foot Millwey Rise Reserves and Winsham United Reserves look to be under the most threat.

DIVISION FOUR

(Reigning Champions Chard United Reserves, promoted - Farway United Re-

SHEPTON Beauchamp Reserves, with five straight wins, are one of the entire league's form teams.

But a terrible start which culminated in a 11-1 mauling at West & Middle Chinnock Reserves could come back to haunt them. Waytown Hounds look to be favourites for promotion.

Things looking brighter - despite the snow

HEAVY snow has once again thrown the national hunt programme into chaos with Boxing Day racing, one of the highlights of the calendar in doubt following further heavy downfalls at the beginning of the week writes Stuart Broom. However things are looking brighter for Bob Buckler's stable despite still not being able to find that winner that will break their current poor run.

Mizzurka who produced some exhilarating runs in bumpers last season to earn herself the much coveted 'black type' which enhances her breeding value considerably, made her debut over fences and finished a very creditable fourth behind two highly regarded horses in the Happy Christmas Mares' Novices' Hurdle at Exeter last Thursday.

Ridden by the newly-crowned BBC Sports Personality of the Year and Champion jockey AP McCoy, she didn't disgrace herself despite running a bit green.

"She was a little bit uncertain going over fences for the first time, so we dropped her out at the back to start with," said Buckler.

"She ran well but was up against two very good horses in Naughty Naughty and Kim Bailey's Silver Gypsy who won it, so fourth was a good result. AP who kept her in touch on the inside was delighted with her and said she did everything right and will come on for the run."

John's Gift making his debut over fences in the Vote A.P. McCoy For BBC Sports Personality Novices' Chase on the same card ran what Buckler described

Starting the 66/1 outsider of a field of eight, he made a few jumping mistakes to finish sixth. "He learned a lot from the race which is the main thing, and although he made a few mistakes the race did him the power of good."

Power Lord did well on his track debut, finishing fifth in the Free Bets At gg.com Novices' Hurdle at Towcester on the same day.

In very sticky ground the three-year-old ridden by Nathan Sweeney allowed the field to get away, but got back into it with some good jumping and was staving on at the end.

"It was a promising debut," said Buckler. "He jumped pretty well but for one hurdle and was staying on at . the end, so we are quite hopeful."

The testing ground however put paid to Ready Or Not, another one making his debut over fences. Hampered at the first when he pecked, he started to make an impression but eventually the ground conditions got the better of him and he was pulled up two from home.

Mister Matt put in a decent performance at Newbury in the Powersolve Electronics Greatwood Charity Handicap Chase over 2 1/4 miles finishing a not too distant eighth.

"He did OK in a high class race and will come on for the run," added Buckler.

The Henley trainer hoped that racecourses would act sensibly about cancelling fixtures over Christmas.
"Boxing Day is big for all of the tracks that have fixtures, but I hope they will be sensible and think of everyone in making decisions about calling racing off early if there is no prospect.

"Trainers up and down the country will be working hard to prepare horses for the races, and it will be annoying for us all if we work flat out for no real purpose, particularly if cards are called off very late when there was no real chance it was going ahead."

Buckler has yet to decide which of his horses will be running, but expects entries at Wincanton and Fontwell, weather permitting.

Magpies through to county semi

DORCHESTER TOWN 2 POOLE BOROUGH 0

Dorset Senior Cup Quarter-Final

DORCHESTER Town eased into the semi-final of the Dorset Senior Cup with a less than convincing 2-0 victory over Poole Borough in this twice postponed match

After a goalless first half Jamie Frampton struck within a minute of the restart before Ryan Moss made the game safe just before the hour after coming off the subs bench.

Mnanager Ashley Vickers took the opportunity of giving Frampton his full debut whilst giving Jamie Mudge a full 90 minutes for the first time since his return to the club. JamesCoutts and Harry Nodwell also got valuable match practice as did keeper Regan Coward, whilst U18 players Lee White and Andy Suttle were named on the bench.

Despite the disparity in their league status, Poole Borough resisted Dorchester superior power for the first 45 minutes; the nearest the Magpies came to scoring was when Neil Martin's inswinging free-kick was tipped over the bar by Borough keeper Jakub Malara

The visitors might in fact have snatched the lead near the break but Anthony Winders failed to test Coward from close in.

They paid for the miss as just as Saturday, Dorchester scored within a minute of the restart, Frampton volleying home when Malara dropped Nick Crittenden's corner

The gloveman redeemed himself just beforte the hour when he foiled Mudge with a superb save, but from the resultant corner Moss glanced a header beyond him.

Vickers who was full of praise for Borough's determination, was pleased to have got the tie played, although the pitch was slippery in places due to the frost

The Bob Lucas Trophy

Tuesday night's Bob Lucas Trophy match between Dorchester Town and Weymouth at the Avenue Stadium was postponed at the weekend due to the amount of snow covering the pitch and the anticipated adverse weather conditions expected on Sunday and Monday.

The game will now be played in the New Year on a date yet to be announced.

Hutch & Trevor's Christmas wish - bumper crowds and three points

WEYMOUTH manager lan Hutchinson and Bridport boss Trevor Senior both had the same answer when asked what would be the ideal Christmas present for their club writes Stuart Broom.

Both however wished them for different reasons!

They also were asked what New Year's resolution they would make

This is what they said:

Hutch

HUTCH hoped that a bumper crowd would turn up at The Bob Lucas Stadium on Boxing Day to watch the visit of league leaders Truro City.

"It would be a great boost for everyone if we could take three points against Truro; not only the team, but the fans and the management, both from a financial and confidence situation.

"The two clubs are miles apart financially and we know that it is difficult for us to be able to compete but three points would be a great Christmas present!"

"Keep fighting and keep believing!" was Hutch's New Year's resolution.

"I know we are doing that now and both Andy (Mason) and I are already committed to that but it is what we believe in, and that we can get out of it.

Considering the very difficult circumstances this club is in, it's an amazing achievement to be where we are and we want to take it forward.

"We want to keep the squad together; they are a great bunch of lads; and to nuture the young local players that we have here, they have been superb."

Trevor

TREVOR also wanted a big crowd at St Mary's Field on Monday (27th) for the visit of Chard Town, and three points.

"Obviously the money would help the club financially, but three points would boost the team and club as we go into the New Year looking to maintain the pressure on the top of the league."

Asked about a New Year's resolution, Trevor was adamant: "For the club to try and work closer with referees!"

Bridport Football Club have a poor disciplinary record this season, a typical example being when four players were booked and one sent off in the Dorset Senior Trophy game against Kingston Lacy which they won 7-0!

"Our disciplinary record is poor across the three teams and we need to do something about it.

It is costing the club a lot of money and we are losing players through suspensions which are hampering our selection possibilities.

"We need to work with the referees rather than oppose them; five cautions in a match you win 7-0 is ridiculous.

You can't take the competitive nature out of people, and nor do you want to on the field, but the players need to show some restraint

"Each caution costs the club £10 a and a sending off £50 in county FA'administration' costs, money a club like Bridport can ill afford to lose

"The money the club pay out could be used on something different such as more kit, transport or a whole host of things.

"The club have been looking at the situation closely over the past month or so, and the managers have been asked to relay their thoughts to the players.

But at the end of the day it is down to the players to control their feelings."

Great season for Anders

SPEEDWAY and grass track racing sensation Anders Rowe has had yet another outstanding year on the track in 2010.

Eight year old Anders is sponsored by Impact Signs and attends Holy Trinity School in Weymouth. He recently won the Devon and Cornwall Championships, and last week found out that he had won the South West Youth Championships.

Anders, mascot this year for Swindon Robins and Newport Wasps, is in the process of having a Danish 80cc speedway bike built by his dad, Delwyn.

This is in preparation for the World 80cc Championships which he can race in when he is ten, in the summer of 2012. The Championships will see Anders competing in Denmark, Sweden and Poland.

Anders who has raced grass track every weekend since he was six, gears his life around his passion for the sports and will be competing in the under 15s 125cc section next year. Without a doubt he is on the right track for yet more superstardom in 2011.

Chance for ladies to kick off New Year and get fit!

WOMEN are being invited to banish their winter blues, and possible winter bulges, by playing football at the Thomas Hardye Leisure Centre in Dorchester in the New Year.

In partnership with the Dorset County Football Association, the centre is launching a women's sixa-side football initiative for ladies of all abilities and fitness levels to meet new friends, build confidence and, of course, get fit.

The scheme starts on Saturday January 29th and runs for ten weeks; each two-hour session promises to give a total body workout.

There's no need to have played football before, just be enthusiastic. By playing football regularly it will only take a few weeks before ladies notice an increase in fitness, as well as improved agility, balance, coordination and speed. While many women may think of netball, hockey and tennis as more female friendly sports to get involved in, football is in fact the most popular participation sport for women in England right now. Forget any notions of beer-swilling 'ladettes', with women's football you can just be yourself, as ball you can just be yourself, as Arsenal and England star Faye White (www.faye-white.co.uk) can testify. "Football has always helped me to meet people and build my confidence.

I think it's a great way for socialising and anyone can play the game, it doesn't matter what level you are you can just play."

Leader of West Dorset District Council Robert Gould said: "Playing football regularly not only offers numerous health benefits but as a team sport it's a great way to get out and meet new people.

We're pleased to offer women's football as the most recent addition to a range of recreational opportunities to improve the health and wellbeing of communities across West Dorset."

Starting on January 29th the course finishes on April 2nd. Sessions run for two hours from 3.30 pm - 5.30 pm at the Thomas Hardye Leisure Centre, Dorchester on the artificial grass pitch. Initial sign up cost is £25 per team and thereafter sessions cost £2 per player per week.

Don't worry if you aren't part of a team, you can still join up as an individual or with one or two friends and coaches will help you match up with other players to create your own team.

RUGBY ROUND-UP

WITH KEITH JENKIN

No need to panic just yet

ONCE again the weather had the final say as far as the various league programmes were concerned on Saturday last, and all three local clubs had their games postponed, something that is beginning to cause concerns at all levels.

While one has come to expect one or two postponements due to adverse weather conditions in the course of a season, they usually occur during the months of January/February.

I do happen to know that Bridport have already had two games postponed, while Dorchester have lost no less than three. Weymouth have got off a little better than their neighbours and have only had one postponement.

The second and third sides have not escaped unscathed and, if the clubs lose another couple in the new year, then they will have considerable difficulty in catching up by the end of the season.

Let's not anticipate a complete shambles at this stage however and hope that the weather gods will relent. It's as well to be prepared for the worst

In fact there will be very little competitive rugby played locally during the festive season, although one or two clubs take part in an internal gallop, generally on Boxing Day.

Weymouth for instance throw their club house open, with anyone who turns up being guaranteed a run out if they bring a pair of boots.

The first Saturday of 2011 falls on 1st January, a day when many will be nursing hangovers, and the leagues resume on January 8th.

In the meantime may all have what they would wish for themselves this Christmas.

Ainslie back to winning ways

TRIPLE Olympic sailing champion Ben Ainslie saw a return to winning ways on Saturday, claiming one of Skandia Team GBR's three gold medals at the opening event of the 2010-11 ISAF Sailing World Cup series in Melbourne.

Ainslie's victory came amid a British clean sweep of the podium spots in the Finn class where he was joined by World Champion Ed Wright, who took silver, and Giles Scott in bronze posi-

With the help of three wins in the nine-race qualifying series, the 33year-old Ainslie, who is a director of the Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy, went into Saturday's double-points scoring medal race with a six point lead over Giles Scott, the World Championship bronze medallist and winner of summer's Skandia Sail for Gold World Cup event at Weymouth and Portland last sum-

Ed Wright was just one point behind Scott in third heading in to the final race. "Ed was going right and Giles was going left. I went with Giles," recalled Ainslie of his medal race tactics.

"It (the wind) was slowly clocking left but there was a big right hand shift which lifted Ed."

Wright took advantage of the conditions to finish the medal race in second, which boosted him into second place overall, while Scott finished the medal race in third with a fourth place enough to hand Ainslie gold - his first since his return to Finn class racing

Andrew Mills was Skandia Team GBR's fourth contender in the Finn medal race, finishing his regatta in eighth place.

INSIDE: Magpies through to county semi-final

Hectic schedules ahead

THE Christmas and New Year is normally a hectic time for football clubs and whilst Weymouth and Bridport only face two games over the festive period, Dorchester Town and Yeovil Town have four games in just nine

The Magpies face a double header with Weston-super-Mare; hosting the Somerset side on Boxing Day (ko 3pm) before travelling up the M5 on New Year's day (ko 3pm).

The sides have already met with the Magpies winning 3-1 at Weston in the FA Trophy last month, but the Seagulls are on a high having astonishingly beaten second placed Bromley 7-0 in their last Blue Square South

Sandwiched between, is a trip to Havant & Waterlooville on Tuesday December 28th (ko 7.45pm). The Magpies were walloped 4-1 by the Hawks in the FA Cup in one of their worst display of the season in September. They also fought out a goalless draw at The Avenue in the league in August which was the Magpies first point of the campaign.

They complete their hectic schedule by hosting Hampton & Richmond Borough on January 3rd (ko 3pm). Weymouth host Zamaretto Premier Division leaders Truro City on Monday December 27th (ko 3pm) in what should be an entertaining game. They then travel to Bashley on Monday January 3rd in a game which Weymouth need to get something from if they have thoughts of climbing the table.

The teams have met three times already this season with the Hampshire side winning 4-1 at the Bob Lucas Stadium on August Bank Holidav Mondav.

However the Terras have improved since then and they won their FA Trophy clash 2-1 in mid-October before then losing 5-2 ten days later with a weakened side in the Red Insure League Cup.

Weather permitting, Bridport were due to travel to Portishead on Tuesday for a rearranged Toolstation Western League First Division match.

They face two local derbies; entertaining Chard Town at St Mary's on Monday December 27th (ko 3pm) before travelling to North Dorset to play Gillingham Town on Monday January 3rd (ko 3pm).

Despite Chard Town's lowly position, they are always tough opposition, whilst the Gills are two points behind third placed Bridport having played four games more, and the Bees will have to be on their mettle.

Yeovil Town face a tough time, not only for the fact they have only won once in ten games and that was against non-league Rushden & Diamonds in the FA Cup.

The dismal run has seen them slump to the bottom of npower League One whilst any FA Cup run was halted at Hartlepool last week.

On Boxing Day they entertain midtable Brentford (ko 3pm) in a must win fixture before travelling to Hillsborough to face Sheffield Wednesday on Tuesday December 28th (ko 3pm). Despite the Owls thrashing at the hands of Exeter City on Saturday, they beat the Glovers 2-0 at Huish Park in October and will be a tough nut to crack.

New Years Day sees them travel west to Home Park in a local derby against Plymouth Argyle (ko 3pm).

The Pilgrims under Peter Reid have not had a good season but have climbed to safety in recent weeks.

They complete their hectic period by entertaining another midtable, and beatable side, MK Dons on Monday January 3rd (ko 3pm) to whom they lost 3-2 in the reverse fixture last
